“Make an effort to find regular quiet time, and you’ll come to know God; your doubts and troubles will disappear. When the sun rises, it should find you with a book in your hands. Before reading, pray for God to open your mind and heart - He can do that. In the space opened by your distance from worldly things, you’ll find your desire for Christ.”

-Elder Aimilianos of Mount Athos

This year’s book: Beginning to Pray by Met. Anthony Bloom (left), a modern spiritual master. This short classic challenges and expands the vision of people of all spiritual levels. It explores how to live authentically as humans, with themes like God’s absence, facing boredom, going inward, seeking the divine, and managing time.
